58	5/11/2021 1:48	I'm grateful for the Sunday morning training/support. I think all prospective volunteers should be encouraged to attend. I don't think we should or can guarantee safety but strive to create a space that allows for honesty and trust. I liked the term "brave space". I do believe we are working towards everyone developing and maintaining good boundaries. I haven't been to the boundary workshop but perhaps group members who are struggling with feeling safe could be encouraged to attend. Thank you for this work. It is typical of the extraordinary strength and integrity of this meeting.	Host/Moderator Behavior	Host/Moderator Training
57	5/11/2021 0:28	I am very pleased with this meeting. Some of the new leaders/moderators are a little tentative, but they are just learning. It might be helpful to have a little written information on how to manage difficult situations (e.g., someone acting out, etc.) I have seen some "ruffled feathers" appear once in a while, and I would benefit from having some calming and affirming language to soothe the person and protect the group.	Host/Moderator Behavior	Overall Feel
96		I sometimes feel the pre meeting can feel a bit cliquey or raucous, but I am not trying to be critical either (but I know this comes easily for me) softer or calmer atmosphere is my preference and I suppose I can turn off my audio; those doing service are permitted some reasonable leeway per the Concepts which address service specifically this pertaining to breakout host and even crosstalk is permissible if it's in the spirit of identifying and connecting and not opposing or shaming, re chat feature I favor the way it is as long as it used with individual restraint hope this is helpful and much gratitude for the immense dedication and service ps I have been told to keep my video off to avoid being dropped which happens regularly, so I am not necessarily moving around is it possible to consider unlocking the meeting at 8:25 allowing access for announcements and after meeting if so desired? Just a thought thanks again		Safety-General
50		I think the trusted servants are doing a fine job of keeping them he meeting a safe and healing place. When bumps inevitably occur, the group seems to work together to smooth them out.	Host/Moderator Behavior

68		I do not understand the questions about the host holding a mini group conscience vote within the meeting. If you are asking if I would support that, the answer is no. I like the format and, in my opinion, a group conscience like that would be disruptive and waste time. Thanks.	Host/Moderator Behavior
70		I think its important that Room Hosts be trained to support the Comfort Rules. The RH have been wonderfully warm and welcomingbut there is an occaisional need for "gentle reminders". Rather than separate training into Basic or AdvancedI would suggest having a "Task Centered" approach: Each Task Title (Raise/lower Hands) chosen by folks comfortable at THat particular levelwith Room Host divided into Part 1 (tech skills only) RoomHost Part 2.	Host/Moderator Behavior
141		When I call into the meeting by telephone, on occasion a breakout- group host will call on me to share because I'm on the telephone, even though I have not pressed "star-9" to "raise my hand". This feels like a violation; I feel forced to respond, even if I don't want to interact. The break-out room host has ALREADY stated that a phone caller can press "start-9" if they wish to share.	Host/Moderator Behavior
11		I would like to see the SMR reading stay on screen during the 2 minute silent meditation. It could help ppl who can't retain it while it is being read aloud and maybe encourage more sharing. Thank you, survey committee, for your hard work.	Overall Feel impossible to create a safe space for everyone. I would prefer silence doesn't go away, it gets longer. I have rarely been in rooms where I didn't get to share. I have been in rooms where the silence is overwhelming.

		I love when the opening of the meeting is focused on a quote or face to face meeting people hang out and have fun or partake of

		It's simple and natural. Again, my suggestion is: PLEASE leave us

71	5/11/2021 12:46	My biggest issue with this meeting is the 2 minute shares. From	Overall Feel	Safety-General my personal experience and what I have seen with others - people just get into the groove then their time is up. I was at a meeting today and it was 5 minute shares with the host notifying at 3 minutes and then 5 minutes. It felt like it gave the space a more authentic vibe and members could get into more of a "heart centred" true self space. Now that there are so many breakout rooms here - My personal opinion would be to do something like that.

145		There are chats/voices prior to 7:30 indicating it's not meeting the needs of all. Voices ask for what they need, or feel is needed. For me, the meeting comfort rules and HP are guiding at that time. Some voices are more frequent than others. I notice how unity, and lack of unity, feels for me, and I learn from how others express needs. We are all equal; assigning a trusted servant to facilitate that, a Pre-meeting Greeter, is a great idea. A member who can arrive early but not stay late can still offer service, especially someone who wants to start as a Greeter before Room Host. Also, TH's script says pass "Host" to someone before you leave (after 8:30 am)continuing as TH isn't reasonable. TH can pass Host to someone who knows to avoid closing the meeting for all, etc. Who Hosts/Facilitates post 8:45 is very situational: service meetings, events, or a trusted servant willing to hold space for a more gentle landing of fellowship than "time is up, or Greeter needs to leave".	-	Host/Moderator Behavior
48		I love the meeting. I enjoy the breakout rooms. I think you could have a few more people in the breakout rooms. Sometimes, the pre meeting conversation is personal and can be off putting to those not part of the conversation. I enjoy the quotes shared.	Pre-Meeting	Overall Feel
16		I love that the format allows for social chat both before and after the meeting. During Covid, this is often the only human contact I have. I'm a little disappointed when scheduling conflicts curtail social time, but often I join in with the new discussion and that's been positive. I think additional training or sharing/mentoring between room hosts would be great so that every new host has the benefit of learning from those with experience in managing difficulties that may arise in breakout rooms (how and when to enforce time limits, gentle non threatening language, things that aren't always obvious in our day to day interactions with other humans). 		Maybe just turn off the all-chat during sharing?
		I think it could be great to have (more) training for the post-mtg generally it is great to hear people greeting one another. So, as much as I like to keep things ACA related, sometimes we need to talk about the big snowstorm, etc. I think we have a few minutes to laugh & virtually hug each other as I would do in a face to face meeting. Things are not always meeting related before a face to face meeting, so I don't feel we need to make any changes. If people are triggered by the greetings, they have the option to mute the audio, step away until 7:30, or join late when we are

112	5/16/2021 23:30	\ensuremath{I} am on the fence about the pre-meeting. \ensuremath{I} am new to the meeting	Pre-Meeting

		I come into the rooms with with hypervigilance, I have a hard time feeling safe anyway.
		However, I want to say I'm grateful to ALL the trusted servants taking on this responsibility. Watching you show up imperfectly, consistently, and publicly owning your stuff and growing is as essential to my recovery as my own work is. Working toward being consistent enough to do the same. Thank you.

134		TY for your survey. The questions made me realize that I have stopped attending the pre-meeting because I do not have confidence that it will be a welcoming and safe space. I'll need to step back into it to give it another try. Separately - I want to offer that as an ACA, I am regularly surprised when I identify a current feeling (trigger) as being related to a historical root cause. I know I 'own' the healing of my triggers. I do strive to have an ABUNDANCE of patience and tolerance for other SMR Travelers who may be acting out in their behaviors (on both sides of the issues that prompted this survey) because they may not recognize that they are being triggered - and that trigger is part of their own healing work. Peace to you all.	Safety-General	Overall Feel

		There have been breaches in confidentiality with a select few
